I picked up the phone, forlorn and alone
Desperately needing a friend
I dialed 911 – she said, "Can I help you, son?"
I said, "I'm down in the gutter again."

She said with a sigh, "I can't help you, but I
Have a number for people like you"
It was a doctor on a hotline, who told me I'd be just fine
I hung up and stared at my shoes

[chorus]
Someone call 911 Jesus
Cuz this time I think I might fold
Someone call 911 Jesus
And beg him not to put me on hold

Well I know I'm not much on religion and such
But I live by the golden rule
Just a glimmer of hope, at the end of my rope
It's all that I want him to do

[chorus]
